YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS OF THE FORTY-SIXTH CONGRES !.

A Committee Appointed to Enquire into the Alleged late Election Frands. SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 5, -- Wallace from the select Committee submitted a report of the result that the Committee's investigation on the subject of denial or abandonment of suffrage in the State of Rhode Island, and reported bill to en. fore e provisions of section 2 of article 14 of amendments to the constitution of the United States. Placed on the calender and testimony taken by the Committee was ordered to be united. Wallace presented sundry petitions of citizens of Rhode Island praying relief from the rule of suffrage observed in that State. Refered to the Committee on Judiciary Butter submitted a reso-lution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for copies of reports by Cap-tain John W. White, of the U. S. Reve-nue service made while he was on duty in Alaskan waters to transfer Alaska from the war to the Treasury depart-ment, Adopted. Blair sta ed there would be a minority report on the question of suffrage in Rhode Island from Wallace's Committee. On motion of Voorhees bill providing for a joint committee to arrange better accommodations for the Congressisnal library was taken up, and he spoke in its support. The condition of the library, he said, was a disgrace to the nation. For want of room ninety-five thousand volumes or one fourth of the whole number in the library were either stowed away behind other books or piled up on the floor. Were it not for the exertions of the exceptionably able librarian the library would be almost useless. The Congressional library, he said, was tenth in size in the world. Arguing from its previous growth it would in sixteen years more be the largest in the world, except perhaps the British museum and the national library in Paris. It was imperatively nec esaary that it should have more space, better ventilation, more light and greater accessibility. At the con-clusion of Voorhees remarks Conkling suggested that in order to give more time for debate on this subject the KelloggSpofford resolutions be informably laid aside. This was agreed to, but before resuming discussion the Senate took up the District of Columbia appropriation bill and after long debate thoreon without action adjourned

WASHINGTON, May 5 .- Atkins (Tenn.,) chairman of Committee on appropriations reported a bill appropriat ing $250,000 for carrying on the public printing office for current fiscal year. Atkins stated that the sum appropriated was same as that appropriated by the bill which had been vetoed by the President. The bill was then passed without division. The morning hour having been dispensed with, King, of Louisana, called up joint resolutions re-affirming the Monroe doctrine. Blackburn raised the question of con-sideration, stating that he desired to proceed with the Post Office appropria tion bill. The House by decisive vote refused to consider the Monroe doctrine resolutions, and at 12.30 went in to committee of the whole (Carlisle in chair) on Post Office appropriation bill. The House committee on ways and means, resumed consideration of Representative Tucker's tarriff bill to-day and agreed to that portion of the bill which places upon the free list the following articles: salt in bags, barrels packages or bulk; woolen rags, shoddy mungo, waste and flocks; books, period icals, pamphlets and all printed matter; engravings, bound or unbound; il-lustrated books and papers; maps, charts, music, and music books; su-mac, cod liver oil, (crude or refined,) and crude petroleum. At this point Representative Wood moved to insert in the bill, to be placed upon the free list, wood pulps and all other pulps used in the manufacture of paper. Pending the discussion upon this proposition, the committee adjourned unti to-morrow, when a vote will be taken upon it and the committee will proceed with the consideration of the bill. Sev. eral votes were taken upon many of the articles, before any agreement was finally reached, to place them upon the free list. Nine distinct propositions to fix duty upon salt were voted down before the articles were finally allowed to be put on the free list.

The amendment increasing the appro priation for railway mail service to $9,000,000 was rejected. After some discussion an amendment was adopted appropriating $9,490,000 for railway mail service, of which $350,000 is to be used in obtaining special facilities.
On motion of King, of Louisiana, the appropriation for inland transportation by steamboat routes was increased from $825,000 to $850,000. The clause relating to the Starline service was then taken up.

Blackburn, of Kentucky, proposed various amendments to the proviso, which led to animated debate between Representatives from Eastern and Western States as to the propriety of cutting down the service west of Miseissippi. Ewing, of Ohio, opposed such reduction and moved to strike out the pro-viso entirely. In this he was supported by Page, of California, Maginnis, of Montana, and others. Cannon, of Illinois, Reagan, of Texas, and others supported the proviso, and declared that many of the Star service contracts were outrageous robberies. Without coming to a vote the Committee rose.

Quarantine at New Orleans.

New Oblians, May, 5.—Governor Wilts issued a proclamation establishing rigid quarantine against all infected ports and againstall vessels from or touching at Havana, Vera Cruz or Rio De Janeiro, all such vessels to be throughly fumigated and detained at quarantine istation at the discretion of board health.

An Improbable Tale About Jay Gould and the Wabash.

WASHINGTON. May 3 .- Apropos of the reported lease of the Great Western of Canada by the Wabash, it is well to observe that the objections raised in Canada by stockholders of the Canada Southern to the legality of the arrangements now existing between that road and the New York Central would equally apply to any lease of the Great Wes ern by another American road, and also that as the Wabash is an Ohio corporation the laws of Ohio forbid positively the lease by any railway cornot directly connect at the time of the lease with their own road, whereas the Great Western road does not now connect with the Wabash, there being a gap of some sixty miles not built between them. The story, therefore, its not likely to be true, and if any negotiations looking to such a result are in progress they can only be completed after the determination of the legal question raised in Canada and after a repeal of the existing statutes of Ohio, PHILADELPHIA, May 5.-At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Pennsylvania R. R. Co., to-day, Geo. B. Roberts was elected a member of the board of directors and President of the company, to take effect June 1st.

New Hampshire Democratic State

Convention. CONCORD May 5 .- The Democratic State Convention met to elect delegates to the National Convention at Cincinnati; at Phoenix Hall this morning and was very fully attended. The Convention was called to order by Geo. F. Pitman, chairman of the State Convention, and John M. Shirely, was elected President. Mr. Shirely appeared before the Convention and delivered an address which occupied but a few minutes and was a scathing review of the Republi-csn party. The Committe reported res-olutions re-affirming their devotion to olutions re-affirming their devotion to the principles of Pemocratic-Republi-can Government as assured by the founders of American liberty, deuoun-cing the so-called Republican party and election frauds by which creatures of conspiracy and fraud were installed in places of those lawfully chosen Pres-ident and Vice-President of the United States, declaring in favor of free elec-tions and the right of every citizen to cast his ballot unimtimidated by federcast his ballot unimtimidated by federal bayonets or any instrumentality of force or fraud, leaving delegates to Cincinnati free to act in the exercise of wise discretion conjointly with Representatives of the party from all States. Adopted, Delegates were then elected, and a resolution adopted in-structing them to adhere to the twothirds rule. Adjourned.

CORD WOOD IN THE MAILS.

How a South Carolina Man Imposed on Some Postal Official.

Washington Post. The mails were doubtless originally ntended for the transmission of letters documents, &c., but since the law allowing packages of four pounds in weight to be carried, has gone into effect, it is difficult to tell what has not been, or may not be, sent as mailable matter. The most recent thing is cord wood, several large sticks of the sort of matter being now in the dead letter of matter being now in the dead letter office. These pieces of wood are each about four feet long and four inches square, weighing about twenty pounds. They are carried by pairs in canvas sacks, addressed to S. P. Sharpless. Boston, and labelled "forestry." They were mailed at Aiken, South Carolina, and they seem to be a residence of fearer. and they seem to be specimens of forest growth, probably intended as a con-tribution to some collection. How they came to be put in the mail bags. or mailed at all, is a puzzle, for they exceed the limit in weight, and their bulk is such that no postmaster would think of receiving them at any rate. When they got here on their way Last they were stopped, and are now at the dead letter office, the name of the sender not being known. Two tons of bells for use upon sheep were secently sent to New Mexico in four pound packages, and one firm in Boston makes a business of shipping whithe trees through the mails.

> +---Early Lives of Great Men.

Lawrenceburg (Ky.) News. In the very interesting debate on the Agricultural and Mechanical College bill a few days since a potent and rev-erend Senator entertained the Senate and spectators with a bit of history. He related in graphic style how he had fought the battle of life amid trials, troubles and tribulations, and what a death struggle he had to get an education: he told how he worked until he got money enough to buy him a "sorrel colt," and how from that sorrel colt he built his reputation and fortune; he teld of his going to mill astradle of a meal-sack and various other experiences drawn from real life. When he had completely finished the touching autobiography, a Senator on the other side of the chamber, and from the county of Shelby, arose with a dignity that was worthy of one of his Roman predecessors and inquired of the Senator who had just taken his seat if he had ever thinned corn in his shirt-tail when the bull gnats were in full bloom, and remarked if he had not his experience was not equal to that of the Senator from Shel-by. A roar of laughter resounded through the august body, and the "sor-rel colt" was laid in the shade.

Dr. Teasdale in Durham.

Durham Plant. For the past week Dr. Teasdale, in connection with the paster, Rev. C. Durham, has been conducting a series of meetings in the Baptist church at this place. He is seventy-two-years old and is a most venerable looking gentleman. His sermons, and especially his exhortations in the bible readings, are having a marked effect. His reasoning and illustrative faculties are indeed fine. He makes everyth ng so plain that a child can com-prehend. He lectured last Sunday evening for the bennt of the children and had a large crowd to hear him.

Bismarck Does not Retire. Berlin, May 3,—The North German Gazette denies the rumors recently circulated by Progressist newspapers of Prince Bismarck's approaching retire ment from office, and says that the Chancellor in consequence of the abstention from parliamentary attendance imposed upon him by the state of his health, has enjoyed an opportunity for devoting his attention more continuously to ministerial duties in foreign home affairs, and has himself stated that he daily acquires greater love for those duties, and that his former inclination to seize every opportunity to remain at his country-seat proportionately diminishes.

CINCHONA RUBRA A CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS.

A Graphic Narrative of the Tor tures of Dipsomania by one of the Victims.

San Francisco Bulletin.

The following is a true story. The author is known to many readers of the Bulletin. As a narrative of personal experience it is almost as graphic as De Quincey's "Confessions of an Opinum-Eater:'

Editor Belletin: My experience of the effect of Cinchona Rubra seems likely to prove of benefit to others, and I have therefore, and for that reason alone, requested a friend to submit this true recital to you for publication. Such confessions can only be made reluctantly, and ought to be taken as the ontgrowth of a wish to help other sufferers to the attainment of a new peace, health, and sanity. A year ago, I scenied a hopeless wreck. I had lost business and social position, was without employment, and was drinking hard. My own misery and the wretchedness of those at home was beyond expression, and beyond belief by any who have not closely watched the work of alcohol. Every friend was justly alienated, and I and mine were eating the bread of charity at the hands of those who pitied the wife whom I had sworn to protect. I cannot describe how bitter a slave I was to this bad appetite, nor the mean devices I would adopt to satisfy it. One epileptiform attack succeeded another, my mind was going, my nerves were shattered, and the great mystery of my disgrace was that I had not suffered a pronounced attack of delirium treemens or even sunk into a drunkard's grave By the blessed sorcery of a Peruvian twig, this unspeakable curse, which had hung upon us for thirty years is at last removed. Removed, not through any change of heart, or will, or intellect, but not through my own sharp agony, not because of the awful shrink ing from me of my little ones, not by the just damnation of public scorn, not by the sacred sorrows and wresling supplications of my noble wife, For I would to-day be as powerless as ever in the grip of this herce thirst if my physical nature were not changed and renovated. On the 20th day of May last I began taking the Cincho Rubra, in doses (during the first four days) of a teaspoonful every three hours. During the three intervening nights I gradually ceased to dream that I was drunk,—a horror which had for about a year made me shrink from bedtime, and which rivaled De Quincey's eloquent opium-dream of "crocodiles and all slimy things confounded in Nilotic mud.' My appetite for food revived slowly, but seemed to require more than anything else hot bowls of beef tea from Liebig's Extract, and plenti-ful slices of buttered toast. The fourth night I dreamed again. out the menauce of foul monsters yielded to boyish thoughts of icy brooks laughing through alder copses, and leaping trout, and the drum of the ruf-fled grouse

On the fifth day, dimly hoping that my redemption was beginning, I dared to face the 2, 800 grogshops of the city. The roar, and rush, and crowd of the streets pierced me like a lancet; but with my shiver of unrest came no accustomed thirst; and when a throb of positive hunger came to me I went into a barroom for my lunch feeling safe. There stood faceing me the naked blan-dishments of all choice vintages, and distillations, and brews, and a white-aproaed master of the mysterious formulæ of all mixed drinks. But their invocation seemed merely like the murmar of a Memnoa, about whom I feel neither knowledge nor curiosity, neither terror nor reverence, neither longing nor dislike.

Dazed by this novel insensibility to temptation, I went home, but do not care to enlarge upon the surprise and joy of the welcome which awaited upon me. I had terribly undercalculated a nervourness which ought to have kept me in the house a day or two longer; but quiet came toward nightfall, and the assurance that I was less "possessed of the Devil's gave peaceful sleep again.

That day was the crisis. From then until now it has been as impossible for me to drink as though whisky were molten iron. I feel neither horror nor disapproval of the long list of intoxicante. I simply cannot touch them. Were I to phrase this fact of absolute indifference a myriad ways they would do poor justice to its value, however much its iteration might tire you. For it is this which proves to my entire conviction that my drunkenness was a disease, and that I am cured because it is a curable disease.

If, in other words, there had occured during the last eleven months one momentary impulse towards relapse. I might well join the experienced Gough in pronouncing even such reformation as my own a delusion and a sham, a bubble to be pricked by some provo cation at some devil's opportunity or other. Agreeing that no man is safe other. Agreeing that no man is safe so long as his nature is characterized by this "dipsomania" or thirst-madness, I am proof enough that, at any rate in certain cases, the appetite may be killed while the individual is kept alive. Such a one is saved because he has no will left to himself in the matter; he is sobered and restored, so to speak, in spite

I bought one eight-ounce vial of the extract after another, at Burnett's drug-store, and presume that the preparations of any other respectable druggists are equally efficient.

Beginning with a teaspoonful every three hours, I have gradually reduced my doses to a present quantity of a quarter teaspoonful twice or three times a week. Beside its safeguard against any return of the old curse, this conqueror of the quinine tree is a superb tonic, and I would have died outright from exhaustion and overwork during the ill-paid months which next succeeded my recovery but for its next succeeded my recovery but for its strengthening aid.

I speak of all this not in a spirit of prolix egotism, but because some seemingly slight symptom or fact may possess actual and special importance to some one else. How profound and merited was my fall some of the friends where release to the same through the same transfer of the same who now cluster around me know to the full; and they share the joy of my happy wife and innocent children in my present success. Stripped of the dead drug of this poison of mind, and body, and soul, every faculty seems equipped with vigor; and to perfect my comfort it only remains that He who has saved me may so save another through my agency.

Selection of Judge Key's Successor. WASHINGTON, May 3.—The President, it is said, is much embarrassed

dent, it is said, is much embarrassed over the prospective vacancy in the Cabinet, and if Congress should adjourn before the Chicago Convention the selection of a new Postmaster-General will be an exceedingly delicate duty. The President has therefore requested Judge Key not to retire from the Cabinet will the and of the present fixed. net until the end of the present fiscal year, unless meanwhile it should be-come evident that Congress will adjourn before that time. The ostensible reason for this delay in filling the vacant Tennessee Judgeship is that it would be better for the present Postmaster-Gen-eral to finish the current fiscal year and allow his successor to begin with the new year on July 1. The real reason, however, is the President's disinclination to seem to involve himself in the scramtle of Republican candidates for the Presidential nomination. Mr. Hayes says that if he should select a man for the office who is a friend of Secretary Sherman the supporters of Grant, Blaine and the others would un-questionably howl the charge of favor-itism at him. On the other hand, to nominate a man who may be friendly to either of the other candidates would not help matters but would still subnot help matters, but would still sub-ject the president to a variety of charges. It would, no doubt, be very easy to find a man friendly to all or to none of the Presidential candidates, as the exi-gencies of the case might require, but if the President should be forced to make a choice before the Chicago Convention he will probably either put in a Sherman man or else promote First Assistant Postmaster-General Tyner, who has had the exclusive charge of a large part of the Post-Office patronage for three years and distributed it so ju-diciously, and has been so generally efficient that he is well thought of by the Democratic Senators, and of course would be acceptable to the Republicans, if for no other reason than that he served faithfully as Postmaster-General uncer Grant. The name of Postmaster James, of New York, has been mentioned for the place, but it is not probable that he will be chosen. The fact that there is already one New York man in the Cabinet would probably be sufficient to pass him by. Even if that were not see the President would be state to take so, the President would hesitate to take Mr. James away from the important office that he has managed so faithfully and satisfactorily. It is suggested that the President may select a Southern Republican for the office, and the names of Judge Settle, of North Carolina, and ex-Senator Joshua Hill, of Georgia, are mentioned as eligible candidates. It is also understood that as Pennsylvania was not honored in 1877, Senator Don Cameron proposes to enter a man for the race, and as ex-Governor Hartranft has been a standing candidate for every important office that has become vacant since he left the Pennsylvania Governor's chair, it is but natural that be should be again spoken of as a candidate. For the reasons mentioned in the beginning of this dispatch, however,

Letter of President Scott to the Direc-PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—The follow-ing is the letter of Thomas A. Scott resigning the Presidency of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company:

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD Co., PRESIDENT'S OFFICE, Philadelphia May 1, 1880.

To the Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company: GENTLEMEN-After a service of near y 30 years with the company I find it necessary to tender my resignation as its President and as one of its directors, to take effect effect June 1. I do this only because I am assured by my physician that it is indispensible to a possible restoration of my health that l should be relieved from the cares and responsibilities inseparable from the

I had hoped to continue in the service of the company during the residue of my life, but under the advice referred to, this is no longer practicable. It has not been without much careful thought that I have reached this conclusion as the one best, not only for myself, but for the interests of the company, as I feel that the duties of your chief executive can only be properly performed by one in thoroughly strong health, and able himself to act promptly and efficiently in all emergencies that may arise.

I need not say with what keen regret
I sever relations which have extended through nearly two-thirds of my life. and which have associated with them the most gratifying recollections of faithful support and adherence to the interests of the company on the part of those in every department of the ser-vice with whom I have been officially or otherwise connected. In resigning the trust with which the shareholders and board have honored me, I feel sure that the property will be safely and wisely administered by those who may be my successors; and I can only add that, with its present high standard, both physically and financially, a faithful adherence to the conservative policy set forth in your last report will, in my judgment, bring about results that cannot but be satisfactory to the management and gratifying to the shareholders. If I can aid at any time to advance such results, it will give me very great pleasure to do

I beg to return my thanks to each and every member of the board, and to the officers and employes of the com-pany, for the earnest and kindly support which I have received from them in the performance of the duties that have devolved upon me. Very respectfully yours, THOMAS A. SCOTT.

Highly Commendable. Farmer and Mechanic.

Highly commendable is the course of the two leading aspirants for Governor, in, as we understand, endeavoring to restrain their friends from any ill-na-tured cuts and thrusts, or angry assaults upon the personality of either, We have heard that both Gov. Jarvis and Judge Fowle discourage every-thing tending to a newspaper war, or personal clash. This is so much as it should be that we need say no more about it. For our part, we consider that if any Democrat cannot get an office without assailing the character of a fellow Democrat, ne must be unworthy of the honor,

THE BOSS STAR OF THE MONTHO MAY.

A Condition of Planetary Affairs Which Has Not Occurred Before in two Thousand Years.

Providence Journal. Jupiter is morning star, and by far the most important object for observation among the planets during the month. It cannot be too strongly impressed upon the minds of students of the stars that the four great planets are all approaching their perihelia, and bringing about a condition of planetary affairs that has not occurred for 2,000 years. Jupiter reaches the goal first, arriving at peribelion on the 25th of September. Such is the eccentricity of his orbit that he will then be fortysix millions of miles, or about half of the whole distance of the earth from the sun, nearer to the great central fire than when farthest away. He is also at that time almost at his nearest point to the earth, coming into opposition with the sun eleven days after perihelion. The earth is then directly between him and the sun; but the earth is farthest from the sun in July, and will be at considerably more than her mean distance in September, when Jupiter is forty-six million miles nearer. It may easily be seen that when at opposition the earth is at or near her greatest distance and Jupiter at his least distance from the sun the two planets will be from the sun, the two planets will be almost as near together as they can be. Such will be the case next October, and the giant of the system will soon give evidence of the fact in his increasing size and brilliancy, brighter than he has been for nearly twelve years. The difference will not be so marked as in the case of Mars under the same conditions, for nearly four hundred million miles of space intervene between the earth and the huge planet even when nearest. Jupiter, therfore, will be a source of inten e interest during the coming months as he approaches and recedes from his perihelion and es and recedes from his perthelion and opposition. The great problem of the effect of his approach upon the mysterious spot-period of the sun will be first in importance. Many astronomers scout the idea of such an influence. Many more find nothing improbable in the theory that the approach of a huge mass to the sun should produce disturbance in his blazing elements, evidently in commotion from some cause. dently in commotion from some cause, while the near correspondence in time between the maximum of the spct-per-iod and the revolution of Jupiter favors the argument. No one doubts that the disturbed condition of the sun will be reflected on the earth in waves of intense heat, severe storms, and auroral displays, or that the same influence will be felt in the same way to the system's remotest bounds.

Gigantic Jupiter, as his mighty mass plunges towards the sun, gives evidence of mighty forces at work among the chaotic elements of his cloud-surface. A spot has been seen on his disc for nearly a year, eliptical in form, red in color, and with a diameter of twenty thousand miles. No observer inderstands the cause of this huge rift, It may be an opening in the cloud-at-mosphere disclosing the more solid matter beneath, and it may be something beyond human ken. About the 22nd it is hoped that the planet will be again in favorable position for the observation of the red spot, and patient investigators will not be wanting to make the best of the opportunity. This beautiful planet may now be seen in the eastern sky, serenely unconscious of the excitement induced by his movemen's, rising a quarter before 4; at the end of the month he rises at 2, nearly two hours and a half before the sun. Saturn is evening star, but no special nterest is attached to his movements during the month, excepting on the 1st, when Saturn, Venus and Mercury rise within a few minutes of each other about an hour before sunrise, Venus being the brightest and farthest north.

only one degree from Saturn. This planet rises at present about a quarter after 4; at the end of the month, at half past 2, half an hour after Jupiter.
Venus a morning star, and though at nearly her greatest distance from the earth, and rising only about half an earth, and rising only about hair an hour before the sun, is a charming object to behold in the pleasant May mornings, as, tremulous with brightness, she gleams in the rosy glow that heralds the near approach of the sun. She rises now at about a quarter after 4; at the close of the month a few minutes before 4 keeping at nearly the utes before 4, keeping at nearly the same distance from the sun.

Mercury is morning star throughout the mouth, though after the first few days invisible. He is at his nearest point to Saturn on the 6th, and to Venus on the 19th. He rises about a quarter after 4 on the 1st, and about half after 4 on the 31st.

Neptnne is morning starafter the 2nd. when he comes into conjunction with the sun He is in close conjunction with Mercury and near Venus on the 18th. As he travels on the system's extremes verge, and is now more than twentyeight hundred million miles away, terrestrial observers will not be much wiser for attempting to trace his move

Mars is evening star, and still holds the honor of being the only planet visible in the evening He shines in diminishing glory among the stars of Gemini, and is not far from Castor, the leading brilliant of that constellation, on the 15th. He is so far away, and his fiery rays have become so dim, that he is not much account among his brethren. He sets now a quarter of an hour before midnight; at the end of the Uranus is evening star and traveling far away from visibility, though very near the Rho Leonis. He rises now about 1; at the end of the month about 11.

The May moon fulls on the 24th. The waning moon pays her respects to no less than five of the planets—to Japiter on the 5th, to Mercury, Venus, and Saturn on the 7th, and to Neptune on the 8th. The new moon of the 9th is near Mars on the 13th and near Uranus on the 18th, the day after her first quar-The feature of the month is the unusual number of planets doing duty as morning stars. Jupiter, Saturn, Venus, Mercury, and Neptune form the shining quintette that sing together as they wait the coming of the sun. If mortal ears are not turned to hear the music of the morning stars, mortal eyes will enjoy rare pictures on the celestial canvas during the mild May mornings. Venus, Saturn, and Mercury rise within a few minutes of each other on the lst. The loveliest picture of the menth is unrolled on the 7th, for the slender crescent of the waning moon only two days before her change, is then in close vicinity to the same shining trio. Throughout the winter Venus reigned alone as morning star, and Jupiter, Saturn, and Mars, far as under, spanned the evening sky. Now they are all morning stars, grouped near each other and near the sun. And yet such is the variety and simplicity of the noble science of astronomy that an intelligent child can comprehend the movements of the planets.

Observers of the stars have enough to do during the month in watching the movements here indicated, in studying the phases of Jupiter, and the appearance of the great red spot, in nothing the increase of any spots, and in testing the increase of sun spots, and in testing the truth of the prophecies of men of science concerning the meteorological changes to be expected from these ce-lestial coincidences.

Signs in the Sky.

New York Sun.

The superstitiously inclined might regard the signs of the sky for the last month or six weeks as ominous. Meteors and shooting stars have been unusually plentiful. The newspapers in all parts of the civilized world have contained accounts of their appearance. Not a week has passed without one or more brilliant fire balls having been account a England or on the continent of more brilliant fire balls having been seen in England or on the continent of Europe. One night, two or three weeks ago, the people of some parts of Northern New Jersey were started by a sudden illumination out of doors, followed by the rapid flight of a large meteor across the heavens. Two or three fire balls have been seen recently in the Western States. The other day the residents of two towns in Connecticut were astonished to hear a noise like thunder everhead, although the sky was serene and cloudless. It is reported from Sicily that recently a shower of meteor dust, containing a large amount of meteor iron in small particles, fell there. Any one crossing the ferries at night, especially in the early part of the month, if he wat hed the sky, was pretty sure to see one or more shooting stars before the trip was ended, reminding him of the fact that the earth is continually being earth is continually being "Pelted with star dust, stone I with meteor balls."
The astronomers have succeeded in locating most of these aerial batteries that are trained upon the earth so that their discharges can be predicted, but there are yet a great many random shots that can not be referred to any of the radiant points. This is especially true of the large meteors, of which so many have been seen of late. The dimany have been seen of late. The direction of the small fire is pretty well known, but the great blazing balls that shine like a flying moon, leaving trains of fire, and then burst into fragments, come as unexpectedly as bombs from a hidden gunboat.

Female Vigilantes,

St. Louis Republican. A young man from twenty miles be-low here brings news of a terrible crime committed by some women in the neighborhood of the Brady farm. A woman, a poor, miserable outcast, on the very verge of the grave, had taken shelter in a cabin on the Brady farm. An over-virtuous female, accompanied by her sister and a girl of a pretty hard reputation, went to the cabin to run the poor creature off from the settlement. She, having heard the threats made by this tries are the life creatived out of the cabin to run. this trio against her life, crawled out of the cabin into a hollow log which lay near. The party went to the cabin, threw off the roof, and deliberately tore down the house a log at the time. When they had succeeded in demolishing the cabin, they began a search in the woods adjoining for the recent inmate, and acjoining for the recent inmate, and succeeded in discovering her retreat in the log. The elder lady wanted to take some giant powder and blow up the log, but the other two insisted on making her come out and leave. So they told her if she would come out and leave immediately they would let her go, but if she did not they would cover her all over with tar and set it on fire and burn ner alive. The miserable wretch, urge on by fear of such a terrible fate, walk-ed and crawled two miles up to the Shaw farm, where she crept into an old corn crib and died. They drove the woman off on the 20th of April and she

The number of pleasure and business travelers going to Europe this year is unusually large, and taxes to its fall capacity the passenger accommodation of the popular lines of steamers. The tide of immigration, however, sets westward with a stronger flow, and brings to our shores people who intend to stay. The immigrants probably fetch more money with them than the pleasurs-seekers will spend in Europe, thus keeping the financial situation on an even keel. Both the outward and the inward movement are indications of national prosperity.

MAYOR KALLOCH IMPEACHED.

Resolution Adopted Empowering the Finance Committee to Prosecute. SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.-At a meet-SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—At a meeting of the supervisors last evening the judiciary committee, which had been instructed to take into consideration the utterances and addresses of Mayor Kalloch and report proper action to be taken by the board, filed a long report reviewing the history of the labor agitation and the part borne in it by Kalloch, finding that he has encouraged the lawlessness and discontented element, advised them to parade the streets, and endeavored to keep them in such disposition and temperament as to commit an outbreak whenever it should suit his purposes; that he has as to commit an outbreak whenever it should suit his purposes; that he has impeached the honesty of the whole community, accused various branches of the city government of corruption and dereliction of data and under a pretense of connemng the mob against violence insidiously advised them to be in readiness for bloodshed and the overthrow of the authorities. The committhrow of the authorities. The committee recommend that prompt action be taken to vindicate the fair fame of the municipality by a judicial inquiry.

A motion to adopt the report was put by Mayor Kalloch, who announced that by a viva voce vote it was carried. that by a viva voce vote it was carried. The roll was then called, resulting in a unanimous vote for its adoption. A resolution was then adopted authorizing the finance committee to cause judicial proceedings to be instituted against the mayor for his removal from office, and empowering them to employ counsel and prosecute the matter to a speedy termination. Throughout the reading of the report and resolution, Kalloch appeared cool and unmoved, seeming to consider only the dignity of his position as presiding officer of the board.

The latesi Yankee idea is described by the dignified English papers as a game "played with fifteen little dices of wood marked consecutively from one to fifteen, which are placed indiscriminately in a box, constructed to hold sixteen, and thus allowing room for one to be moved at a time. The game, which is in principle something like that called solitaire, consist in bringing all the dices into numerical order, the first row counting one, two, three, four, and so on, until the fifteenth is attained." The puzzle is not appreciated in England. It is condemned as the most senselessly unprofitable method of wasting time which has ever been devised.

MASSACHUSETTS is rapidly groving rich over the swamp and submerged lands lying around Boston. It has sold in the last few years a large amount of apparently valueless land of this kind for $3,400, 000 and has just been offered $1,000,000 for a twenty-five acre piece of the South Boston flats. The land is to be filled up and then built up with residences.

RECENT reports from Ireland indicate distress is increasing. A letter received in Philadelphia the other day from Dublin states that "in very many parts of Ireland, but principally in Donegal, Galway, Sligo, Mayo and Roscommon, the distress appers to be greater than it was a month since." It is hoped that the new government will do somothing toward affording relief, but in the meantime additional aid from this country is urgently need-

SIX thousand political prisoners in Russia were liberated on Thursday, the birthday anniversary of the Czar, This change from the ineffectual course of clemency and forgiveness toward the Nihilists will probably do more than any thing else to strengthen the trembling fabric of Russian autocratic government. That is an instructive old fable which related to the competitive trial of strength between the wind and sun-the traveler, who had only buckled his cloak the more tightly as the wind raged more furiously, being ferced to throw it off when the sun poured down its warmth upon him.

CAN an eating house keeper be a gentleman in England? seems to be the question raised by the recent election for the stapleton Local Board, near Bristol. Last year Mr. Thomas Wood, came forward as a candidate for election. He was then described as an eating house keeper, and only 267 votes were recorded for him. This year he stood again, but, being described as a gentleman, obtained 609 votes, and was elected. A protest has now been entered against his election on the ground of misdescription on the voting pa-

BESIDES the Republican State Conventions to take place this month, the following are also billed for May: New Hampshire and Nevada Democratic and North Carolina Greenback, May, 5; Ohio Democratic, May 6; Wisconsin Democratic, May 12; Virginia Conservative, May 19; New . e sey Democartic. May 20; and Kausas Democratic, May 26. As the Cincinnati Convention does not occur till June 22, quite a num ber of Democratic State Conventions will come next month, while the Republican list closes with the end of May. Some of these are as follows: South Carolina, June 1; Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas, June 2; Tennessee, June 8; Indiana, June 9; North Carolina and Kentucky, June 18.

It seems that by English law, name given at baptism may be changed a confirmation, for Sir Edwards Cok says: "If a man be baptized by the name of Thomas, and after, at his coafirmation by the Bishop, he is named John, he may purchase by the name of his confirmation. And this was the case of Sir Francis Gawdye, late Chief Justice of the Court of Common Piezs, whose name of baptism was Thomas and his name of confirmation Francis; and that name of Francis, by the advice of all the judges, Anne 36, Henricus VIII, he did bear and after used in all his purchases and grants." This is a valuable hint to those who have had hideous names inflicted on them.

Boiled rice is the basis of Chinese food and the symbol of it, so to speak for a waiter when asking you whether you are going to take a meal, will ask you if you will have some rice, and "Have you eaten your rice?" is equivalent to "How do you do?" In the north of China wheat and canary seed are also consumed in great quantities. boiled and made into small rolls. Cakes made of boiled wheat are held in high esteem, and these, with a little fish or some vegetables, will enable a China man to make an excellent dinner. A Chinaman in comfortable circumstances takes, in addition to his breakfast, dinner and supper, various light refresh ments between meals-the kuo-tsa leading up to the morning, the quetsong to the mid-day, and the tienchen to the evening meal.

THE Chinese, according to a London dispatch, are still on the war path, the Kuldja incident having apparently excited everybody from Viceroy Li Hung Chang down to the humblest pig-tail against all foreigners. The Chinese government, it will be remembered. recently refused to ratify the bargain made by its own plenipotentiary with the Russians, whereby the latter obtained a very valuable slice of Kuldja. To this Russia was certainly entitled as she saved the Chinese population from extinction by intervening to protect them from the rebellious Tarantchis, but the Chinese government does not see it in this light and proposes to have the whole province. In the event of war, Russia will incite a Mohammedan rebellion against the Chinese, and will doubtless close the proceedings by annexing the whole of Kashgar. The Ameer of Bokhara has signified his intention of assisting Russia, as the people of Kashgar are Mohammedans like himself. The Chinese government has been during the last few years greatly increasing the effectiveness of the army, French, German and British military men having been called in to drill the men and construct fortifications. The Chinese navy consists of eight iron-clads, carrying twenty-seven-and-one-half ton and thirty-eight ton guns, worked by hydcaulie power. These vessels are of the best English build and are very formidable. The Chinese army is distributed at the rate of 20,000 to 100,000 men in each of the eighteen provinces of the empire. Its actual strength is only estimated, and a small portion of it only has been brought into a state of tolerable efficiency during the last few years. The iron-clad navy has only been in existence since 1877.
